

REDS RECLAIM LAST GERMAN SALIENT MENACING MOSCOW ALLIED SHIPS ARE REPORTED SHELLING INVASION ARMIES

Russians Said to Have Driven Past Captured Mozhaishk

By the Associated Press
Russia celebrated her greatest victory of the war today as the Red armies drove six miles beyond fallen Mozhaishk, 57 miles west of Moscow, in pursuit of Adolf Hitler's battered invaders along the Napoleonic road of retreat to Smolensk.

Simultaneously, a bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged that Soviet troops had broken through German lines on the upper Donets river—presumably in the fierce battle for the big Donets river steel city of Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" in the Ukraine.

The high command asserted, however, that Nazi counter-attacks had thrown the Russians back. No hint of the defeat on the central (Moscow) front was given the German nation.

The fall of Mozhaishk, climaxed by bloody street fighting in the place of burning buildings, was announced in four words by the Russian command. "Our units captured Mozhaishk."

The city, forward anchor of Hitler's winter defense front, was occupied by triumphant Red army forces at 3:30 a. m. (12:30 a. m. S. T.) Monday. It had been captured by the Germans just three months ago in the heyday of their now broken offensive against Moscow—the drive which Hitler proclaimed would be "the last great decisive battle" of 1941.

In London, Soviet quarters declared that the fall of Mozhaishk would signal a "titanic continuation of the battle" and that the Russian army now had hundreds of thousands of completely fresh reserves ready to hurl into a giant offensive along the entire 1,200-mile front.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the Germans suffered enormous losses in an attempt to obey Hitler's order to hold Mozhaishk at all costs, adding:

"The whole defense belt was dug with huge craters and littered with German bodies. Soviet foot soldiers moved relentlessly toward the center of the town driving out or killing automatic riflemen in their hideouts. . . . the dead piled up in cellars, attics and stairways and spilled through doorways. . . ."

JAP GAINS CONCEDED IN LONDON

Strong Enemy Pressure Is Reported Against British Communications Highway Running Southeast From Muar River Sector, Ninty Miles North Of Singapore

By the Associated Press
Allied warships were reported shelling Japan's invasion army swarming down the Malay coast today, and the United Nations were further heartened by President Roosevelt's disclosure that "the Yanks are coming" with A. E. F. vanguards already in action or enroute to far-flung battle zones.

An official Tokyo broadcast asserted that Allied warships had entered the critical battle of Singapore even as Japan's navy minister, Vice Admiral Shigetaro Shimada, boasted that the Japanese navy "virtually commands the Pacific from Malaya and the Indies to the west coast of the United States."

On the same exultant note, Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo asserted that Japan planned "increasingly vigorous operations" in the Pacific and would continue fighting until the United States and Britain were "brought to their knees."

British military quarters conceded that Japanese troops—apparently arriving in small boats which hugged the shore—continued to land along the Malay coast during the past 24 hours, striking ahead of the main Japanese invasion army to harass the British west flank.

Strong Japanese pressure also was reported against a British communications highway running southeast from the Muar river sector, 80 miles north of Singapore, where British, Australian and Imperial Indian troops were struggling to halt the main Japanese onslaught.

It was in this sector that Tokyo asserted 20,000 British were trapped.

A Tokyo broadcast said Japanese forces yesterday captured Segamat, 95 miles north of Singapore, after a seven-day attack against positions defended by the Australian 8th division and fortified to a depth of 35 miles.

British headquarters at Ramatagan, 100 miles north of Singapore, declared that Japanese forces which struck from the Thailand border yesterday toward the important port of Moulmein in southern Burma had been checked near the frontier town of Mawaddi.

Heavy pressure was exerted along the British imperial line across southern Malaya, with the brunt of the fighting apparently borne by Australians on the left flank only 60 miles above Johore Strait.

On the east coast of the peninsula, Japanese patrols penetrated to Endau, about 75 miles from Singapore.

'CHUTE TROOPS USED IN LANDING ON DUTCH ISLAND

Batavia, N. E. I., Jan. 21.—(P)—Japanese landing forces heavily supported by parachute troops and directed with radio sets to direct the fire of their naval guns have completed occupation of the Minahassa peninsula of the island of Celebes but "paid dearly" for this conquest, the Dutch high command announced today.

First details of the occupation were disclosed by Netherlands Indies newspapers, which reported that on the morning of Jan. 20 between 500 and 700 Japanese landed just south of Menado on the west coast of the peninsula while other forces landed from sloops on the eastern shores.

Within a few hours the Japanese were landing at five or six places according to these accounts.

American-built Hudson bombers of the Australian air force and Dutch naval planes attacked the invaders constantly and were credited with direct hits on two Japanese cruisers near misses on a destroyer and two transports and destruction of several Japanese planes. Four of the Australian Hudsons were lost.

Navy Hails New Hero For a Daring Mosquito Boat Raid On Jap Ship

Spectacular Debut of New "P. T." Boat in Pacific War Theatre Undoubtedly Heralds Many Similar Attacks in Future

Washington, Jan. 21.—(P)—For a daring exploit brilliantly accomplished, the navy wrote a new name on the roll of its war heroes today and added one more ship to Japanese losses for the Philippines invasion.

The name belonged to 30-year-old Lieutenant John D. Bulkeley of Long Island City, New York, who rocketed a swift motor torpedo boat into enemy-held Samar Bay and torpedoed a 5,000-ton Japanese vessel, despite a storm of enemy fire.

Thus did the navy's new "P. T." boat make its spectacular debut in the Pacific war theatre and the action undoubtedly heralded many similar attacks in the future.

Bill to Compel Big Chambers Of Commerce, Labor Unions and Special Interest Groups to Report Assets Is Proposed

Washington, Jan. 21.—(P)—Fighting legislation to compel special interest groups to submit accounts of their funds and to limit profits on defense work was prepared today to meet the house naval committee's blunt criticism of practices it declared were current.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said he would introduce immediately a bill to require "big Chambers of Commerce labor unions and all special interest groups" to report to a federal agency their assets, liabilities, contributions and expenditures.

Well-informed congressional circles said that such a program had been discussed by President Roosevelt with conferees on labor legislation two months ago.

PUERTO RICANS INSIST TUGWELL IS A QUISLING

Washington, Jan. 21.—(P)—Renoval of Rexford G. Tugwell as governor of Puerto Rico was demanded today by the island's resident commissioner, Bolivar Pagan who called Tugwell "an American quisling."

In a statement Pagan said the American people know that Tugwell was "disregarding and kicking in Puerto Rico all the principles that the United States forces and Democratic people are fighting for throughout the world."

He declared the governor had threatened to declare martial law in Puerto Rico "to quell the protest of the people against him for his outrages and abuses."

"Governor Tugwell is an American quisling in Puerto Rico since he is doing everything so that loyal American citizens in Puerto Rico become sore and disgusted and he is trying to make Puerto Ricans feel disgust and distrust toward American institutions," Pagan said. "In this way, Governor Tugwell is an American quisling, is doing a good job for the Axis powers."

He asserted Tugwell was a "puppet" in the hands of a minority party in Puerto Rico and tried to create a governmental system by which rule would be by one political boss.

ENGLAND'S PRIMATE RESIGNING

Archbishop of Canterbury, Central Figure in Forcing Abdication of King Edward VIII, Announces Intention to Relinquish Duties March 31 to Make Way for Younger Man

ASSURES CONVOCATION HEALTH IS EXCELLENT

London Jan. 21.—(P)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England and a central figure in forcing the abdication of King Edward VIII, announced today he would resign March 31 to make way for a younger man.

The archbishop, the Most Reverend and Right Honorable Cosmo Gordon Lang, a 77 years old last October 31 and has been the Archbishop of Canterbury since July 27, 1928.

The top-ranking ecclesiastic, the Archbishop of Canterbury is the First Peer of England next to the royal family. The only other archbishop of the Church of England is the Archbishop of York.

It was considered likely in some British quarters that the present Archbishop of York 60-year-old Dr. William Temple would be named Dr. Lang's successor.

Following the abdication of Edward VIII in which Dr. Lang was a leading fighter to keep England from having a king married to a divorcee the American-born Wallis Warfield, the venerable archbishop placed the crown on the head of King George VI, Edward's successor.

The archbishop was following the example of his immediate predecessor, Randall Thomas Davidson, who in 1928 at the age of 75 months of then monthly pay habitues, contributions and expenditures.

Well-informed congressional circles said that such a program had been discussed by President Roosevelt with conferees on labor legislation two months ago.

PRISONERS BENEFIT By Mistake In Bid

Pittsburgh Jan. 21.—(P)—Prisoners in the Allegheny county jail will eat fresh fish in the near future at a cost to the county of only $1314 hundred pounds.

County commissioners bought the fish at that price yesterday, despite the plea of a local firm that it intended to bid $1514 a hundred. Officials of Knapp Brothers Company said a clerk in their office misread a decimal point, but the commissioners decided "a bid's a bid."

A 700-pound limit on the contract will hold the firm's loss to approximately $94.

RIO CONFERENCE PREPARES FOR TEST THURSDAY

Action on Resolution To Break Off Relations With Axis Is Expected To Come to Committee Vote

SYMPATHY EXPRESSION

BY JOHN P. MCKNIGHT
Rio De Janeiro, Jan. 21.—(P)—The defense committee of the Pan American conference unanimously adopted a resolution today expressing sympathy for Axis-occupied countries and assuring recognition to either governments in exile.

Delegates said the big test of Pan American solidarity—action on the resolution to break off relations with the Axis which Argentina has said she would oppose—would not come to committee vote until tomorrow.

The expression of sympathy resolution touched off a few minutes of heated discussion because of a misunderstanding of the attitude of Brazil.

Hopes that Argentina might fall into line on the proposal to break relations with the Axis were dealt a blow last night by Argentina's acting president Ramon S. Castillo, who said his government could not modify its attitude toward the proposal.

Castillo's assertion made last night in Buenos Aires was generally accepted here as meaning that Argentina had definitely decided against joining the other American nations—at least for the present in forming a solid anti-Axis front.

Of the 20 other republics represented here, Chile is the only one whose stand on a proposed joint break with the Axis is in doubt.

Castillo's statement surprised observers for only yesterday there were reports that Argentina long regarded as the chief obstacle to unanimous action by the conference was leaning toward the majority view.

There was no hint now, however, of compromise.

Washington, Jan. 21.—(P)—War and navy department support "in principle" was claimed by interested legislators today for proposed legislation requiring enlisted men in the armed services to allot $15 monthly of their monthly pay to dependent wives and children, with the government matching or bettering that with an additional allowance to families.

Would Remove All Trade Barriers in Hemisphere Group

Program Drawn Up By United States Is Expected to be Agreed Upon at American Conference Of Foreign Ministers Now In Session and Will Apply To All Subscribing Nations

COMMON CURRENCY IN ANTI-AXIS COUNTRIES

Washington Jan. 21.—(P)—A gigantic war production plan for the western hemisphere which includes abolition of all trade barriers, establishment of a common currency for all anti-Axis nations and use of United States naval and air units to convoy hemispheric shipping—was disclosed today by a high commerce department official.

The program, drawn up by the United States, was expected to be agreed upon at the American conference of foreign ministers, now in session at Rio De Janeiro. The commerce official, who declined use of his name, predicted it would be applied to all nations subscribing to the plan.

If Argentina, Chile or any other nation, does not enter the hemisphere collaboration plan, he said, they will be ignored and the plan will be pursued by the remaining American republics.

Argentina and Chile were reportedly holding back on one of the major aims of the conference—total severance of diplomatic and economic ties with the Axis.

The plan known as the joint war production plan is being outlined at Rio by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Wayne C. Taylor and Warren Lee Pielson, president of the Export-Import Bank.

The preamble to the joint war production plan points out that total war and the hemispheric defense effort requires maximum use of labor, raw materials, transportation finances and information from each of the signatory countries; that the production and resources of each nation must be efficiently integrated and directed toward a cooperative program to defeat the Axis.

It declares that the program must result in a maximum joint output of goods in a minimum of time.

Informed sources said the plan for special projects embraced several of huge proportions. They include:

1. Dredging of a 60-mile canal to connect the Amazon and Orinoco rivers in Brazil so that the vast resources—principally rubber—can be transported more easily from the area.

2. Connecting of the Amazon river route with the east end of the trans-Andean highway from Peru so the products of the west coast can be transported to the east coast of South America without delay.

3. Construction of a new port west of Guayaquil, Ecuador.

4. Conversion of the banana industries of central and northern South America to production of industrial alcohol.

NELSON TO ABOLISH THE O.P.M.

Czar of Industry Informs Press Conference He Is Setting Up Six Major Divisions Under New War Production Board, Eliminating Old Contract Distribution Division Entirely

ASSOCIATE OF FORD IS GIVEN IMPORTANT POST

Washington Jan. 21.—(P)—Donald M. Nelson announced today he would abolish the Office of Production Management and bring all of its functions and activities under his authority as chairman of the new War Production Board.

Nelson told a press conference he was setting up six divisions under the board eliminating the old contract distribution division entirely and incorporating the priorities and allocations system under a new division of industry operations charged with full responsibility for the conversion of all possible American industry to war production.

He said an important branch of the new set-up would be a requirements committee headed by William L. Ball, Philadelphia industrialist and composed of representatives of the army navy lend-lease administration and all other agencies concerned with production of war materials.

As a first move in the conversion program, Nelson appointed Ernest Kanizer, long-time associate of Henry Ford and formerly in charge of Ford production to head up the automobile conversion program with "all the authority I've got to get that job done."

DEFENSE BONDS BEING SOLD BY INSURANCE MEN

Sale of defense bonds in local industrial plants is progressing rapidly under the direction of the Warren County Association of Life Underwriters, it was announced today.

The Treasury Department has called upon the insurance men throughout the nation to enlist in the sale of bonds and the 25 members of the local association are now hard at work on this task. Every manufacturing, industrial and retail establishment employing sufficient workers will be contacted within the next few days with the hope of securing a pledge from every worker to purchase defense bonds.

The employer is offering to every worker the privilege of making weekly, semi-monthly or monthly allotments from their pay until a sufficient sum has been deposited to purchase a bond. The employer then will purchase the bond and deliver it to the employee.

Earle G. Mohr, president of the local association, has just received a copy of a cablegram from Honolulu, sent by George Perry, president of the Hawaii Association of Life Underwriters, to the National Association of Life Underwriters in New York City, which says:

"Addition to work brought us by our emergency we realize one of our most important tasks in America's war is sale of national defense bonds and stamps. We know what war on American soil means and ask our fellow underwriters to redouble work selling bonds and stamps to make impossible barbaric unprovoked attacks on our country stop. We in Hawaii can never forget Pearl Harbor stop. We ask our colleagues throughout America to remember it in their contributions to war effort."

Reports are to be mailed each Thursday to the Treasury Department and early reports now tabulated show a total of 1,600,000 workers already pledged with the sale of $22,644,785 in bonds and stamps. These figures represent only meager reports from scattered sections throughout the nation.

Following are the names of local firms contacted thus far who are cooperating: New Process, Warren Water Company, Pennsylvania Electric Company, Pennsylvania Gas Company, United Refining Company, National Forge and Ordnance Company, Blue and White Restaurant, Warren County Dairy Association, West Hickory Tanning Company, Masters Transfer Company, Crescent Furniture Company, Warren Gear and Tool Company, Phoenix Furniture Company.

Navy Hails New Hero For a Daring Mosquito Boat Sinking of Jap Ship

The nocturnal assault, suggesting anew the steadily wider operations of Admiral Thomas S. Hart's Far Eastern command, was reported by the navy department in a communique last night which said that Bulkeley "has been commended for executing his commission successfully."

Bulkeley had eight seamen, as yet unidentified, in his crew, but the matter-of-fact navy statement hardly hints at the nerve-racking peril of their mad dash.

The greatest protection the men had was the speed of their powerful craft, whose 4,200 horsepower engine is capable of producing a maximum of about 70 knots, or 84 miles an hour.

Besides speed, there was the element of surprise in the night-surprise increased by the fact that Binangon Bay, tucked away inside a narrow bay on Luzon island, is far from any known base of Allied operations in the Far East. The Japanese might reasonably have expected American submarines in that vicinity but they apparently were not on guard against a lightning attack by a lone small boat.

That was the enemy's mistake, for American navy men have turned such risky tricks before.

and their destinations in various parts of the world were military secrets. The same held true for the supplies that went with them. But together they represented a trickle, at least, of the great flood to come, and the news enheartened the other United Nations, particularly the Dutch and Chinese.

The first official disclosure that the "Yanks are coming" originated with the commander-in-chief himself, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Acknowledging that reinforcements and supplies were being sent to the south Pacific war zone, the president reported excellent progress in this exacting operation to his press conference yesterday.

Official confirmation that fresh American troops were battle-bound engendered no false optimism or expectations of major victories overnight in a capital settling down for a long, hard war.

Elsewhere in the war picture, the vents closest to the home front were the continuing operations of Axis submarines off the Atlantic coast from Cape Hatteras to Newfoundland. The Navy department reported last night that several additional attacks had been made on vessels, but no details were released.

Alex McDonald, William L. Proctor and Benjamin G. Keith, all of Youngsville, pleaded guilty to larceny charges before Judge Allison D. Wade and were sentenced to pay fines of $25 each, spend 60 days in the county jail and were also ordered to make restitution.

The three were alleged to have stolen a yearling Guernsey heifer from the Frank Crosby farm, near Columbus.

Also entering a plea of guilty, Paul H. Johnson, 26, of 210 Pennsylvania avenue, east, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs and had his license suspended for a period of one year.

Johnson was arrested last Saturday morning by Officer Gary W. Bean of the local police department, after his car figured in an accident in Pennsylvania avenue, west, between Liberty and Market streets.

Several motions and petitions of adoption in orphans' court were presented to the court at this morning's session.

Monthly Pay To Dependents Plan Proposed

Before the armistice, about 400,000 men were making allotments to relatives struggling in the economic backlash of the war.

Rep. Edmiston (D-W. Va.) introduced the new legislation after conferences with leaders of veterans' organizations. He said today that service officials favored its objective, but questioned its government allowances, in some instances much higher than those in the 1917 act. The measure would cover regulars as well as selectees.

The West Virginian said the need for the legislation would be accentuated if the government decides that adequate manpower cannot be obtained without tightening draft regulations on dependency deferments.

England's Primate Resigning

80, became the first Archbishop of Canterbury to resign since Augustine I held the office 13½ centuries ago.

Dr. Lang assured the convocation of the Province of Canterbury his health was excellent, but said his duties increasingly fatigued him.

He has been an archbishop for the Church of England since 1910, when he became Archbishop of York.

Early in his career his abilities as a parish priest impressed Queen Victoria, who appointed him an honorary chaplain. Later he became one of her favorite preachers.

As a primate, Dr. Lang has taken a conspicuous part in state as well as church affairs. He officiated at the weddings of the Dukes of Gloucester and Kent, brothers of the king, at the silver jubilee service of King George V in St. Paul's Cathedral in 1935, and at the latter's funeral.

After the abdication of Edward VIII, he said in a broadcast that it was "strange and sad" that Edward "should have disappointed hopes so high and abandoned a trust so great."

The subject was aired on the floor of the house of commons, where one outspoken member, Independent Laborite Jock McGovern, declared bishops should "get out and deal with unemployment instead of kicking a man when he's down."

The archbishop crowned the present king on May 12, 1937, in Westminster Abbey.

Since the new British-Russian alliance, following Germany's invasion of Russia, the archbishop in public statements has urged British support of the Russian war effort.

The latter, he said, is part of civilization's battle against the dictators.

Legislation To Halt Defense Profiteering

At the same time, Vinson said he was working on a second bill designed to prevent the "excessive and unconscionable" profits which the committee declared some corporations had made on naval contracts.

The Georgian said that the legislation could not fairly be based on a fixed percentage of profit, but probably would be built around average profits over a given period of years.

The naval committee sent a voluminous report to the house yesterday summarizing its investigation of 19,086 naval contracts. All members approved the report as a whole, but nine dissented sharply from the majority's findings regarding labor.

PITTSBURGH PLANS TO ALTER WORK HOURS

Pittsburgh, Jan. 21.—(P)—Pittsburgh's office workers probably will climb out of bed an hour earlier, beginning next month, and store clerks will get an extra hour of sleep.

City Traffic Planning Engineer Don McNeill said 90 per cent of the city's firms approved a plan to alter working hours, in an effort to ease a tremendous traffic peak load now concentrated in one-hour morning and evening periods.

Under the plan, office workers would report an hour earlier in the morning and start workers an hour later. Quitting hours would be similarly adjusted.

PERSONAL EXEMPTIONS AND CREDIT FOR DEPENDENTS

Domestic relations enter into the making of an income tax return. This shows itself in the matter of personal exemptions. Too many taxpayers do not understand who is legally the head of a family, or what is a dependent. As a consequence, they overpay the government by not claiming their proper exemptions and credits. Of course, the audit of their returns discloses most of these errors, but not all of them, that are due to negligence or lack of understanding of the income-tax law and regulations.

Both social and fraternal members of the Marconi Outing Club have pledged themselves to full cooperation with any civilian or national defense project which may arise during the present war. It was announced today by recently elected officers of the organization.

Members of the new board of directors of the club are B. J. Schipano, president; T. J. Meneo, vice president; Peter J. Juliano, secretary; Ross Bevevino, treasurer, and Dan Filippi, assistant secretary.

"Victory for the forces of the United States is our slogan in the present crisis," members of the board of directors stated today.

At the same time it was announced that the new board plans to continue the present standard of high class entertainment at the Marconi Outing Club for the enjoyment of members and their ladies.

MAKE PLANS TO COMBAT FLOODS IN THIS STATE

Conscription of game protectors, fish wardens and liquor control board investigators may be affected by the state's flood emergency committee, should it be necessary to combat spring floods in Pennsylvania, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg. The announcement was made by the committee in pointing out that the state's war effort has cut off numerous sources of manpower used to combat floods in the past. Factors include loss of the Pennsylvania National Guard, now in the army; the possibility that the home defense corps might be doing other special work at a time when it would be needed on flood control work, and the shortage of doctors and nurses, acknowledged by state institutions.

Members of the flood emergency committee have announced that all state departments have pledged their help in the event of a flood. They are now making an inventory of supplies and equipment available to extend relief to any section hit by high water.

DOCTORS DOING THEIR PART

According to the report of the secretary made at the January meeting of the Warren County Medical Society, of 51 members in the organization eight are now in military service. In addition it is unofficially learned that at least one or two more may be called within the next few weeks.

Fortunately for the welfare of the American people, the American medical profession was preparing for war long before the bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

Since June, 1940, the Journal of the American Medical Association points out, the medical profession has been intensely engaged in standardization of military medical procedures, encouragement and promotion of scientific military medical research, and enrollment of medical personnel.

More than 10,000 physicians have entered the military service, and over 25,000 have given their services without charge, to the Selective Service boards. Additional thousands of qualified men of medicine are associated with the Army and Navy Medical Corps, the Public Health Service, and other governmental departments of a military or quasi-military nature.

The doctors have shown the highest type of patriotism. On their shoulders fall the vast responsibility of keeping the military and civilian populations mentally and physically fit. They accept that responsibility without reservation. They know the material results will be small. Their principal reward will be in the knowledge of a vital public service well done.

The American fighting forces and the American people at large are receiving a kind of medical service unrivaled on earth. No other nation enjoys higher standards of health—and in no other nation are the requirements laid down by military service so high. The health of our people is one of our greatest weapons.

The doctor will play a decisive role in the winning of the war, and we may well be proud of the physicians who have gone into the service from this county.

SAVINGS BONDS AND SAVINGS

The thought behind defense bonds was broader than merely to provide money for conducting the war. It was also that by channeling some of people's excess income away from the consumer markets and into savings to be spent not now but later, competition for reduced stocks of goods would be lessened and a tendency toward inflation minimized.

Now it develops that many of the bonds are being bought with money already saved in bank accounts or with other forms of savings. Of course that means a mere transfer from one form of savings to another, and defeats part of the purpose of the plan. One who buys war bonds out of savings, and goes on spending all of an augmented income on consumer goods is not really contributing as much to the national welfare as one who leaves his former savings where they were, and buys bonds out of new savings brought about by spending less of his weekly or monthly income.

Make your war savings a part of your regular budget and shape the budget accordingly.

Members of the Recreation Center of the Sons of Italy are setting a fine example for other organizations by announcing that plans are under way for a Red Cross benefit dance February 12, along with the purchase of a $1,000 Defense Bond. This is the kind of patriotism that is certain to bring about the defeat of the Axis powers.

Cinderling crews in both the borough and the State Highway Departments are deserving of a word of praise for the manner in which they have been keeping the highways passable the past few days of sleet and ice.

Warren women interested in aiding the Red Cross are reminded that the surgical dressings group will reopen tomorrow morning at headquarters, 404 Market street, and the need for help was never more urgent.

Three or four of the best books from your own library will help gladden some soldier boy. Give them gladly this week to the borough's quota for the United States camps.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Slave-Emperor Built Haiti's Famed Citadel

LEGENDS cling ghost-like to The Citadel of the Emperor Christophe at Milet, Haiti, where, atop a 3000-foot peak, the weather-beaten, century-old fortress stands as a grim reminder of the fight for Haitian independence.

The stamp above, issued in 1924, pictures the Citadel with its 200-foot towers. One of the many stories of the castle relates that the emperor marched a company of men off the walls to demonstrate to a visiting French general the obedience of Haitian soldiers to their king.

Christophe built the citadel as a place of refuge for his people in war. The walls, in some places 16 feet thick, are of granite.

Gun emplacements with defiant cannon resting in their stocks, dungeons, barracks to house 10,000 troops, and storehouses are still in good condition.

Emperor Henri Christophe, born a slave, played a prominent part in the Haitian slave uprising against the French. He was made president of Northern Haiti in 1807 and crowned five years later.

Down hardwood alleys all over the nation bowling balls have been rolling in one of the sports' biggest seasons. If you don't spare the knowledge, you should score a strike on these questions about bowling.

1. What are a strike and a spare, and how is each marked on the score sheet? What mark is made if a bowler fails to down all pins in two throws?
2. How many strikes must a bowler make to score a perfect 300?
3. What are a split, a gutter, a pit, a turkey and a full hit in bowling?
4. Has bowling always been played on hardwood alleys?
5. Is it considered a breach of bowling etiquette to roll at the same time as the bowler in an adjoining alley? To shout at an opponent while he is delivering the ball?

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — The war is making many changes in the face of Washington. Temporary buildings are going up all over the place. Standing on the White House lawn, Di Maggio could line a fly to the steel pile that is to be the capital's biggest downtown hotel. But none of the face-lifting can compare with that which will grow out of the purchase of 248-year-old Friendship Estate for a $10,000,000 housing development for defense workers.

For at least 140 years, Friendship has been one of the show places of Washington. It was then that it came into the possession of Georgetown college (now university) and on its broad acres was constructed a monastery for student monks.

MORE than 40 years ago, it was purchased by John R. McLean, the late Washington newspaper publisher, and its 75 acres refurbished. For all of that time it has been one of the most important political centers in Washington for after the death of the senior McLean it became the home of Evelyn Walsh McLean, owner of the famed "Hope diamond." The autobiography of the colorful daughter of picturesque old Tom Walsh, gold mining king and one-time senator from Colorado, has made a racy book and much of it is filled with the doings at Friendship.

"A mad place, truly!" Mrs. McLean wrote, "with a monkey in my bathroom, a llama on the lawn, and our corridors shrill with the curses of our parrot (learned from a diplomat). In the stables when my children wished to play at being grownups, they could find there midget horses and the coach, brightly painted, that had once belonged to General Tom Thumb. The cellar was richly stocked with wines and spirits as if that were the first concern of the owners. The kitchen was a place as artful in cuisine as any hostelry."
IT WAS there in the "fabulous 'twenties" that President Harding came with his cronies, Senators Fred Hale, Davis Elkins and Joseph Freylinghuysen, to play golf. It was there that John W. Weeks, Harry Daugherty, and Vice-President Curtis came to play poker. The Coolidges also were visitors there. The parade continues even now, for it was there that Senator Robert Reynolds, of North Carolina, married 21-year-old Evelyn. Mrs. McLean's only daughter.

GLASS BOTTLE PLANT TO OPEN AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Jan. 20—Forced to shut down by a shortage of natural gas which developed during the spell that prevailed in the part of the month, the Pennsylvania Bottle Company factory was expected to be put back in operation today or Wednesday. The shutdown of the plant, due first only to the gas shortage, was prolonged when the plant management decided to make repairs to the "checkers", which are a part of the smelting tank, and also to have installed in the plant fuel oil burning equipment which, in the event of future shortages of gas, can be used to heat the tank and keep the plant in operation.

With the resumption of manufacturing operations at the plant, approximately 200 employees who were laid off during the temporary shutdown will return to work.

STATE HOSPITAL AIR RAID PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Leading the way in Warren county, the Warren State Hospital at North Warren has effected a complete air raid precaution system under the direction of Joseph Gardner, designated as air raid warden for the institution. It was announced yesterday by William Stuart, chief air raid warden for the county.

Plans have been set up at the state hospital for the moving of all patients to points of safety in the event of an air raid and a practice drill held at the institution last Friday showed that the system has been very efficiently organized, Stuart said.

The plans call for all patients to be moved to first and second floor corridors in the event of an air raid alarm. All patients' rooms would be evacuated and by assembling inmates in the corridor of the first and second floors, they would be where thick walls would give the maximum protection.

Commenting on defense plans at the state hospital, it was stated that the institution would take its place in the civilian defense set-up of the county in case of a disaster here. It would be possible, in case of emergency, to utilize a large number of beds at the institution, a spokesman said.

Special precaution is being taken to protect the power plant and other important facilities at the state hospital so that the institution could be used for public purposes if necessary.

In addition to the chief air raid warden, several of his assistants in the county witnessed the practice drill at the hospital last week.

Farm Show Sidelights

Harrisburg, Jan. 21—(AP)—The dean of Lancaster county tobacco growers is still carrying off prizes at the Pennsylvania Farm Show despite his 84 years.

He is Joseph H. Walker of Christiana. He maintained his long record as a consistent winner this year by taking the blue ribbon for a sample of tobacco in the filler B's class for leaf over 26 inches in length and also was awarded the special grand champion filler prize for the best filler exhibit.

Judson Neill of Trinity High School, Washington County, was declared the outstanding vocational pupil in the state in project work engaged in by agricultural vocational classes. He was given first place in the winners class which comprises the victor in each of the 17 projects carried on in the vocational work. Judson, whose father is dead, operates a farm with his brother in addition to attending school.

Endorsement of the price fixing bill pending in congress "as representing the best interests of the nation as well as the farmer," was given by the Pennsylvania Tobacco Association at its farm show meeting. The organization elected S. S. Bard of East Petersburg, Lancaster county, president, and Judge Charles Dunn, Lock Haven, and H. C. Reinhold, East Petersburg, vice presidents.

Sale of lower grade fruits as a means of increasing income was recommended to the Pennsylvania Horticultural Association by President H. W. Skinner of Chambersburg. He said production costs have mounted and that the end was not in sight, while the selling price for the last few years has been declining. The association was told that various varieties of apples must be grown to meet the particular needs of the by-products industry as all varieties are not suited to this purpose.

"Getting an 8 by 10 for a laying house from Hollidaysburg to the farm show was really no problem at all when we got down to it," says Vocational Agriculture Teacher G. O. Bressler.

The instructor and five members of his Future Farmers of America demonstration team needed the skeleton building for their demonstration on the use of electric lights in poultry raising. The boys tore down the building, tied the pieces to Bressler's automobile, then crowded in the machine for the trip to Harrisburg.

Champion potato growers and the state's potato picking champion—a 40-year-old grandmother—were rewarded for their 1941 achievement at the 25th annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers Association.

Crowned 1941 potato picking champion was Mrs. Mabel Westley, of Boswell, Somerset county, who received the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council's annual trophy, presented for the first time and a $25 defense bond.

Mrs. Westley won the championship last fall in a contest over a dozen mail-order growers.

Twenty growers from all sections of the state won membership in the organization's "400 Club" and a club medal.

Officers and directors elected were: P. D. Franz, Copley, president; Ed Fisher, Coudersport, vice president; and M. P. Whittight, Bloomsburg, J. K. Mast, Elverson, and H. W. Lohrer, Somerset, directors.

The Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania re-elected these officers: President, Mrs. Franklin A. Miller, Johnstown; vice presidents, Mrs. E. J. Meyers, York, and Mrs. Russell Bower, Shippensburg; Secretary, Miss Elsie Metzler, Paradise; treasurer, Mrs. Martin Moore, Lititz.

Directors for the coming year are: Mrs. Edna Baxter, Waynesburg; Mrs. J. R. Cassol, East Petersburg; Mrs. Norman Rishell, York; Mrs. Bess Allison, Shippensburg; and Mrs. Paul Kaylor, Elizabethtown.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

one contributing the chief support and it may not be divided between them. Likewise, if two members of a family contribute to the support of a dependent, the one who contributes more than one-half of the support may claim the credit.

Both the personal exemption and the credit for dependents must be prorated when the status of the taxpayer changes during the year, except where the taxpayer is eligible and elects to determine his tax at the optional rates with the use of the simplified Form 1040A.

If a taxpayer occupies the status of a head of a family solely by reason of the existence of one or more dependents for whom he would otherwise be entitled to the credit of $400 the credit of $400 in respect of one of such dependents is not allowable. For example a widower who occupies the status of a head of a family solely by reason of the fact that he is maintaining a home for two dependent children under 18 years of age is entitled to the credit of $400 allowed for one such dependent, and the credit for the other dependent is not allowable.

Parade to Basket in Last Half Brings Dragon Victory

Locals Behind at Halftime By 12-10 Score; Dutchmen Go Scoreless in 4th Canto

A last half drive which saw the Warren High School Dragons come from the short end of a half-time score at 12-10 to forge in front, provided fans with countless thrills as St. Marys bowed to the local schoolboy cagers last night by a 30-18 margin on the home court of the Flying Dutchmen.

From start to finish the Blue and White dribblers showed their superiority over their hosts, but during the first half, failed to make their shots add up, and at half time were trailing by a basket though they were completely outclassing their opponents in every other department.

In the third chapter Smith and Nelson accounted for six points each by the latter, and Lungquist bagged a fielder while Wright and Johnson were shooting fouls to hand lead over to Kolpien. The invaders took the period by a margin of 10-6, and then in the last canto, Smith and Nelson again combined for the majority of Dragon points, getting four apiece while Bob Wright tossed one from the field as the Dragons scored to and held their foes scoreless through the entire half.

Martin Smith, Dean Nelson, Bob Wright, Ted Black and Jim Uranski were the starting line-up for Warren and played good ball all the way, capably replaced at intervals by Al Buerkle, Bud Matthews, Bob Lungquist and Ray Hammerbeck.

Nelson was high scorer for the evening with 12 points while Smith collected nine, and Squires managed to get five to pace the Dutchmen.

The victory didn't help Warren especially, except for keeping them in a challenging spot for first half honors with two games left for each league team, but last night Sheffield, though they penetrated time and time again into the shooting zone under the basket, couldn't keep the ball in the hoop and hoveled to Bradford 31-11. Kane walloped Johnsonburg by a 33-26 count, and Ridgway marked up its first league triumph by running roughshod over Emporium on the Ridgway court, 42-24.

The Elks will invade Warren Friday night, where they are expected to learn a lesson such as they taught the Tapers last evening.

Other games Friday night will find St. Marys at Bradford, and on the home court the Owls should find little trouble, Kane at Emporium, and Sheffield at Johnsonburg.

ALLEY OOP

OWLS ALLOW BUT ONE BASKET IN WIN OVER S.H.S.

Sheffield, Jan. 21—Scoring but one field goal in the entire contest, and that not until the fray was about over, the Wolverines bowed before the superior power and defense of the league leading Bradford Hi Owls, North League champs, in a league tilt here last night, emerging from the scrap on the short end of a 31-11 count.

Though the almost trebled difference in score belies the fact, the game nevertheless was very much of a battle all the way through, with the locals forcing the victors, whose coach substituted but one reserve player until just seconds before the game ended, when he sent in another, to give out with all they had.

The smooth-working champion-ship Bradford combine was definitely the better team and very much deserved their victory, but their margin never had been the twenty points it was had not the Wolverines been the victims of the most atrocious bad luck in shooting that ever befell any team that ever played on the S. H. S. or for that matter most any other court.

Scoreless in the opening quarter, in which they did not even get a chance to shoot a foul, the Orange and Black picked up four points on foul tosses in the second period, a lone point via the same method in the third quarter, and went 4-2 minutes into the last stanza before Steffen connected from midcourt with their one and only field goal. All of which sounds, and was, futile.

The award of the plaque, previously won by Jack Dempsey, Billy Conn and Henry Armstrong, will be made at the annual dinner of the Boxing Writers Association of New York. SPORT SCATTERINGS

WRESTLING LOOMS AS NEW SPORT TO HIT BIGTIME IN PIAA RANKS; GAME HAS WHAT IT TAKES TO GO OVER FROM ALL ANGLES

That wrestling looms as the most promising sport to make its mark in the P. I. A. A. field in the near future is obvious when you look around the area and see the various schools taking the sport more seriously in gym classes, preparing for the day which will soon arrive when schoolboys will be prepared to go against those of other schools and place the sport on a basis fairly equal to football and basketball. Grappling has all the earmarks of a public-pleasing sport, majestically because it is attractive to watch, thrilling and an art of self defense which is good, clean fun, and body-building at the same time. Taking this area into consideration, we note that the City now is building a wrestling team which is fast becoming tops in the district, but lack of competition is holding it down in bonds currently. Bradford High once had several strong wrestling squads, but had to disband in the sport because other schools could not provide it competition, either. However, today, since the report was made that the American youth is becoming weak and unhealthy, after a good many examined as selectees for the army were found to be physically unfit, the high schools have lost little time in inserting wrestling into the regular curriculum of the gym period.

In Warren High, the boys now under Physical Instructor H. G. "Homer" Kolpien are getting their wrestling in one period every two weeks, and if a member of the faculty can be secured to teach the boys in his spare time, wrestling may be given a prominent spot in the athletic program in this town. This writer is certain that once the ball gets rolling, other area schools will be quick in going along with the trend and wrestling will be established. An advantage of the sport is the fact that big or small schools have nearly equal chances of competing with hard-to-beat squads. Therefore, Emporium, with Basketball Coach Paul Civilti, former collegiate wrestler within the period of five years. The main reason that wrestling has been held back in this section, especially in Warren High, is due to the fact that there was no one qualified who had the time to take boys and teach them the art. Kolpien and Ludwig are busy in all of their spare time with basketball and football, Homer Fleming devotes his time to gymnastics and, having built up two championship squads and two state individual titles, can't be asked to give up that lucrative baby now. It is possible for the school to obtain a coach from the faculty, however, per Jim Springer, who formerly was a state highway patrolman and learned his holds not too long ago.

Quickies... We keep hearing reports that Coach Fleming's local gymnasts are all set to at least set the rope-climbing mark in the state come spring, but the good mentor tells us that any thoughts we might have had that they'll win the state team title again can be quickly and quietly disposed of without further ado... Well, Homer was of that opinion last year when they were out to repeat, and what did they do? The repeated... Back to the rope-climbing, a lad by the name of Bob Bean is going up that hemp and ringing the bell in line from one-tenth to two-fifths of a second faster than the state record, and he's consistent... Nearly always beats it by a tooth... We'd suggest he to the basketball faculty in this community, including such names as Coach Paul Civilti, former collegiate wrestler, at his helm, may go along soon and present some outstanding wrestlers within the period of five years. The main reason that wrestling has been held back in this section, especially in Warren High, is due to the fact that there was no one qualified who had the time to take boys and teach them the art. Kolpien and Ludwig are busy in all of their spare time with basketball and football, Homer Fleming devotes his time to gymnastics and, having built up two championship squads and two state individual titles, can't be asked to give up that lucrative baby now. It is possible for the school to obtain a coach from the faculty, however, per Jim Springer, who formerly was a state highway patrolman and learned his holds not too long ago.

Colleges Expected to Rule Freshmen Eligible for Next Fall's Football Schedule

Pittsburgh, Jan. 21 (AP)—Freshman reporting to western Pennsylvania colleges and universities next summer or fall, stand a good chance of being permitted to try for varsity athletic teams.

A survey of several schools showed virtually all are studying suggestions to scrap the present general freshman rule under which first-year students may not play on varsity squads.

Aldo (Burt) Donella, athletic director at Duquesne University, said he would recommend suspension of the rule for the duration of the war to the school's advisory committee on athletics next week.

Coach Pete Henry at Washington and Jefferson, said he expected to suggest to the athletic council of his institution meeting during the first week of February, that freshmen players be made eligible for contests in which opponents used freshmen.

Allegheny College is considering dropping its trash rule and probably will set up a new sports program next week. Waynesburg definitely has decided to use freshmen on its varsity teams. St. Vincent's authorities have not decided and neither has St. Francis.

Pitt is "making time" Athletic Director Jimmy Hagan said, watching what other schools are doing. At Carnegie Tech, Athletic Director (Buddy) Overend said use of freshmen was "inevitable" and that he had recommended such a step last October. The Tech Athletic Council meets next month.

Neil Fleming, at Penn State, said he expected the freshman rule to be waived also.

Harvard University blazed the trail for the froos during the past week-end with the announcement by Athletic Director William E. Bingham that freshman froos would be eligible for varsity competition next autumn. The Big Ten Conference is debating the issue with head, some like Fritz Conisler, of Michigan, opposing the use of first year students, others like E. C. (Bully) Hayes of Indiana University, urging them on.

Chapter 17
Little Slam
ALL the next day Lavinia wondered if she had made a mistake. She was alternately excited and scared. Suppose she played a terrible game even with Rod for a partner. Suppose they didn't beat Mr. and Mrs. Masters. Several times she was on the verge of going down to Rod's cottage and asking him to call the whole thing off.
But she didn't. Instead, she called the head waiter and told him that she was having a guest for dinner, and would like a table for two.
"Yes, Miss Prentiss," said the man. "I'll give you a small one near a window."
Thank you, Charles. And I wonder if you could supply some extra-nice flowers.
"Indeed I can," Charles did supply the flowers. The table looked lovely. Everything seemed to point to a successful evening by the time Rod arrived. And when Lavinia glimpsed him, she knew the evening would be a success. And she thanked her stars she hadn't called the whole thing off as she had been tempted to do. For Rod was everything a girl could ask for. He was perfect. And as he crossed the foyer to meet her, she was conscious of the many admiring eyes that were upon him.
He looked like something out of a smart magazine. He wore a white mess jacket that fitted him perfectly. His black tie was trim and gleaming above the white shirt bosom. His dark trousers seemed to accent the slimmness of his hips, the flatness of his stomach. He looked taller, too—and even more tanned.
"Hello, Lavinia!" he said.
"Welcome to the Inn," said Lavinia. "How does it feel to get a glimpse of civilization?"
"It feels fine, so long as I can stick right close to you," "Stage-fright?" "I think so."
"Then I can sympathize," Margot Linden came up. "Well, look who's here!" she said. "The man of mystery."
Lavinia introduced her to Rod, and said: "Mr. Elliott is dining with me."
"And," said Rod, "we'll like some bridge."
"Time, I can arrange it," "No, we'll do that," said Lavinia. "We want to play with the Masters pair. What you can do, though, Margot, is see that they don't get settled with some other players."
Margot laughed. "What is this—a frangipani?"
"No," said Rod. "Revenge." He smiled at Lavinia. "I'm going to help Miss Prentiss put Mr. and Mrs. Masters in their place."
"A splendid idea," said Margot. "It's time someone did. It doesn't sound very nice, coming from the Inn hostess, but that couple gives me a terrible pain."
"We'll relieve it—shorty," said Rod.
"Come on," said Lavinia. "Let's go in to dinner. I'm hungry, as usual."
Same here," said Rod.
Their entrance into the Inn's large dining room was something of a sensation. The guests fairly stared. And those who recognized Rod as the young man of slacks and sweater—the young man who might be an escaped German prisoner—frankly whispered.
Lavinia held her head high as she led the way to the table for two.
"Everything all right, Miss Prentiss?" Charles asked.
"Perfect, Charles. And thank you so much."
Charles bowed and left.
"That couple over there," said Lavinia softly to Rod, "that couple with the four faces is Mr. and Mrs. Masters. Or should I say 'are' Mr. and Mrs. Masters?"
"No time for grammar lessons," Lavinia said. Rod, in too busy wondering how soon the evening would become even savorier—if that's possible.
They had dry martinis, they had delicious cream of mushroom soup—and then on through a marvelous steak, vegetables, salad, dessert and coffee. Then they smoked cigarettes with their sec- ond cups. They waited until Mr. and Mrs. Masters had left the dining room, and then they fol- lowed. When they entered the foyer Margot Linden was talking with Mr. Masters, and he was gestulating. Mrs. Masters was saying nothing, but looking da- gers.
"Margot has probably sprung the bad news," said Lavinia.
"Come on," said Rod. "Let's at- tack while the enemy is cor- nered."
"Oh, hello, Mrs. Masters!" Lavinia greeted. "And you, too, Mr. Masters. I was just hoping I'd run into you."
"Really?" said Mrs. Masters. "Why so?" said Mr. Masters. "I want you to meet Mr. Elliott," Lavinia said. "He's a wonderful bridge player, and would like a game."
"Where'll we find a fourth?" said Mr. and Mrs. Masters in unison.
"Miss Prentiss will play, of course," said Rod.
"But—she is—er—"
"I've been instructing her," said Rod, while Mr. and Mrs. Masters sought for words. "And now I want to see how good a pupil she has become."
"You mean you want to try her out on us?" said Mr. Masters. "Exactly."
"Miss Prentiss has improved tremendously," said Margot, not knowing whether she had or not. "I think you're in for some bridge that is bridge."
There was only one thing Mr. and Mrs. Masters could do then—and that was play bridge. And they did. Lavinia, with her fin- gers crossed—figuratively speak- ing of course—went at it. With Rod for a partner, with Rod fac- ing her, smiling, giving her silent encouragement, she settled down to play bridge as she had never played it before. She surprised herself. But she surprised Mr. and Mrs. Masters even more.
"Why couldn't you have played like this the other night," said Mr. Masters.
"Yes," said his wife. "Why not?"
"I was a little rusty," said La- vinia. "I bid two spades."
"Two spades?" said Mr. Mas- ters.
"That is what my partner bid," Rod replied.
"She knows, of course that it's a demand bid, I suppose," said Mrs. Masters.
"Naturally," said Lavinia. And when Mr. and Mrs. Masters were studying their hands she delib- erately winked at Rod. He winked right back.
She got up to a little slam. Mr. Masters doubted. She doubted. She made the bid—vulnerable. And that was indeed something, considering they were playing for a twentieth. On and on. Winning, then losing. Losing, then winning.
"Now," said Rod, "I think Miss Prentiss and I would like some dancing. Do you mind?"
"Not at all," said Mrs. Masters emphatically. "I think we've lost quite enough for one evening. What I simply can't understand is why Miss Prentiss played so badly before."
"That puzzles me also," said Mr. Masters. "Will you figure the scores, Mr. Elliott? We'll compare notes."
"Gladly," said Rod.
He and Mr. Masters busied themselves with pencils and pads. "You and Miss Prentiss win," Mr. Masters said presently.
"Yes, so it would seem," said Rod.
"How nice!" Lavinia exclaimed. "Yes," said Mrs. Masters, "isn't it?"
"By six thousand points, I make it," said Rod.
"So do I," said Mr. Masters. Mrs. Masters pushed back her chair. "Pay them. Mortimer," she ordered.
"Yes, my dear," said Mr. Mas- ters. And he paid.
Lavinia and Rod thanked them and moved away. As they did so they could hear Mrs. Masters tell- ing Mr. Masters exactly what she thought of him as a bridge play- er, and it was very far from be- ing complimentary.
More Revenge
"REMEMBER, no cutting in," said Rod, as he and Lavinia entered the ballroom.
"I think you need have no fear," said Lavinia. "No doubt my reputation as a dancer has spread all over the place. The young men will shun me like smallpox."
"Never mind that sort of talk," Rod said. "I want you for myself alone. I don't want to be left a wall flower. I'd feel all hands and feet."
They moved out upon the floor, waltzing together with a sort of quiet grace, and making a strik- ingly good-looking couple. Rod's fair hair and Lavinia's dark hair; Rod tall and slender, and Lavinia coming barely to his shoulders in perfect step, enjoying themselves, becoming more and more uncon- scious of where they were—Rod remembering other dances, other resort hotels, other gay gather- ings, and Lavinia remembering how she had once dreamed being one of a crowd in a ballroom, en- joying completely content in Rod- ick Elliott's arms.
On and on they danced, once around the ballroom, twice around the ballroom. Pat, the dance teacher, stood watching with a puzzled expression upon his face.
"Is that the girl you wanted me against dancing with?" asked a young man at Pat's elbow.
"Why—er—yes," said Pat.
"Then you must be crazy! She's a lovely person, and she waltzes like nobody's business. Where's she been since I landed here?" "She spends quite a bit of time out of doors—reading, I presume."
"How about an introduction?" "Very well," said Pat. "you asked for it."
He moved out upon the floor, tapped Rod's shoulder, smiled at Lavinia. Rod frowned.
"Sorry," he said. "no cutting." "That," said Pat, annoyed, "is for Miss Prentiss to say."
"Sorry," said Lavinia. "no cut- ting."
Pat flushed. "There's a new guest at the Inn, Miss Prentiss, he said. He wishes to meet and dance with you."
"You mean he hasn't been here long enough to hear what an aw- ful dancer I am?" said Lavinia in mock surprise.
Pat flushed even more. "When the dance is over, I'd like to pre- sent him."
"Some other time," said Rod. "Miss Prentiss and I are really enjoying a twosome." He drew Lavinia to him, and danced of with her.
